

Central Plains Youth Sports selected as finalist in Pepsi Refresh Challenge

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 9, 2010 – Central Plains Youth Sports, a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization based in Wichita, Kan., has been selected as one of 32 finalists in the Pepsi Refresh Challenge.

Two winners will be determined by an online voting system, with the top two projects receiving votes being awarded a $250,000 grant. To vote for the Central Plains Youth Sports project, visit www.refresheverything.com/cpysorg.

Individuals may vote daily until Sept. 30.

The Pepsi Refresh Challenge is a nationwide grant program seeking people, businesses, and non-profits with ideas that will have a positive impact.

Central Plains Youth Sports is seeking grant money to fund a construction project in the Wichita area to build a regional baseball/softball complex. It would include 18 playing fields, concession stands, quality playing surfaces, electronic scoreboards, live webcasts, and local/regional/national tournaments. The project would also include children's education focusing on nutrition and exercise, in addition to camps, clinics and individual instruction.

On the web: www.cpys.org

###

Contact: Galen Worley, 316 371-8615 or galen@cpys.org